LTER June Safety Call

With another field season starting/just underway, we invite the LTER community to join us for an interactive discussion on field safety. Molly Phillips, the LTER Inclusion and Access Coordinator and Cassandra Miller, a PhD student at the University of NM and Sevilleta LTER, will facilitate the session, but we will be tapping into our collective wisdom by posing a series of prompts to engage listeners to share wins, challenges, tips, and resources! Join us on Wednesday, June 26th at 9 a.m. Pacific Time 12:00 pm ET to share your knowledge and experience and learn from others as we all strive to keep ourselves and others safe while having a productive and fun time in the field!

Questions/prompts

- What is the best advice you were ever given for staying safe in the field?
- What resources have you found indispensable for taking care of xyz in the field?
- What is a memorable way that a mentor has supported you during field season?

RSVP HERE!
